2022

Sometimes families find themselves in situations where parents are unable to care for a child. Instead, a grandparent or non-parent carer takes responsibility for the child's care.

Information in this brochure is for grandparent and non-parent carers who are looking after a child under:

- formal arrangements, when the care of the child is being managed by a state or territory welfare authority, or a family law parenting order is in place, and
- informal arrangements, when the non-parent carer has come to a private agreement about who provides care for the child.

If you're a grandparent or non-parent carer of a child and live in the same house as a parent, you may not be eligible for payments from us. If you're in this situation, you can contact us to discuss your circumstances.

We have specialist staff who can provide support to grandparents or non-parents caring for a child.

PAYMENTS YOU MAY BE ELIGIBLE FOR

FAMILY TAX BENEFIT

Family Tax Benefit (FTB) helps with the cost of raising children. It's made up of two parts: FTB Part A and FTB Part B.

We pay FTB Part A for each child. The amount you get depends on your family's circumstances.

FTB Part B provides extra assistance to:

- single parents
- non-parent carers (including grandparents)
- some coupled families with one main income earner.

If a child under one comes into your care or you adopt a child of any age, your FTB Part A may increase. This increase is Newborn Supplement and will last for up to 13 weeks. If you get Newborn Supplement you will also get Newborn Upfront Payment as a one-off payment.

For more information, go to servicessaustralia.gov.au/ftb

CHILD CARE SUBSIDY

Child Care Subsidy gives you assistance with the cost of child care. We pay it directly to your child care provider to reduce the fees you pay. Your child needs to be attending approved child care to be eligible.

Approved child care can include outside school hours care, family day care, vacation care, long day care, in-home care and some occasional-care services.

If you're eligible for Child Care Subsidy you may get extra help with the cost of approved child care. To get this you need to be one of the following:

- an eligible grandparent getting an income support payment
- transitioning from certain income support payments to work
- experiencing temporary financial hardship
- caring for a child who is vulnerable or at risk of harm, abuse or neglect.

It provides extra help with the cost of approved child care.

If you aren't on an income support payment you won't be eligible for Additional Child Care Subsidy (Grandparent). However, you may still be eligible for Child Care Subsidy.

ADDITIONAL CHILD CARE SUBSIDY

What is the Additional Child Care Subsidy (child wellbeing)?

The Additional Child Care Subsidy (child wellbeing) is a payment from the Australian Government for families who need practical help with the cost of child care to support their child's wellbeing.

How does a parent know if the Additional Child Care Subsidy (child wellbeing) is right for their child?

If a parent feels they need help to support their child's wellbeing, it is a good idea for the parent to talk to their child care provider. Speaking with the child care provider can be a good way to get advice and find out what support services in the community are available to help. The provider can help parents find out what support is best for their situation and put them in touch with support services in their community.

The provider can also tell parents if their child could benefit from Additional Child Care Subsidy (child wellbeing).

If the provider determines eligibility for Additional Child Care Subsidy (child wellbeing), parents can receive a higher subsidy for up to six weeks. If the provider thinks this subsidy is needed for more than six weeks, they can apply to Centrelink to approve Additional Child Care Subsidy (child wellbeing) for longer periods.

How many hours of child care subsidy will an eligible family receive?

Families are exempt from the Child Care Subsidy activity test for any child that is eligible for the Additional Child Care Subsidy (child wellbeing). This means, they will be entitled to access up to 100 hours of subsidised child care per fortnight regardless of their activity.

How will the Additional Child Care Subsidy be paid?

The Additional Child Care Subsidy (child wellbeing) is paid directly to approved child care services to reduce the cost of child care for eligible families. Eligible families will receive a subsidy equal to the actual fee charged by the child care service, up to 120 per cent of the Child Care Subsidy hourly rate cap, whichever is lower. In most cases, the full cost of care will be covered.

What if the family's circumstances change?

If the provider has determined that a child is no longer eligible, they will notify Centrelink and the Additional Child Care Subsidy (child wellbeing) will cease. The family may still be eligible to receive the Child Care Subsidy.

Where can I get further information on the child care package?

- Visit the Department of Education and Training Child Care Package website at education.gov.au/eccc
- Visit the Department of Human Services Child Care Subsidy website humanservices.gov.au/childcaresubsidy

Residence rules for New Zealand citizens

A person arriving in Australia using a New Zealand passport is generally allocated a Special Category Visa (SCV).

An SCV holder can remain indefinitely in Australia and have access to Australian services similar to that of a permanent visa holder.

The social security rules relating to SCV holders are in line with those that apply to all other migrants to Australia. There are special provisions to ensure that SCV holders who were already residing in Australia on or around 26 February 2001 are not disadvantaged.

To be entitled to most social security payments, New Zealand customers who take up residence in Australia after 26 February 2001 need to:

- have permanent residence status (a permanent visa), or
- have Australian citizenship, or
- be a protected Special Category Visa (SCV) holder.

To be considered a protected SCV holder an SCV holder must have been:

- in Australia on 26 February 2001, or
- in Australia for at least 12 months in the two years immediately prior to 26 February 2001, or
- issued with a Certificate of Residence (XOB073) by International
