GPV/KCV acknowledges the peoples of the Kulin nation as the traditional owners of our great land and offers respect to Elders, past and present.

GPV/KCV acknowledges that Aboriginal culture existed in Australia before European settlement and consisted of many community groups. Further, we acknowledge the Indigenous peoples of this land as the oldest continuing cultures in human history.

GPV/KCV acknowledges that laws and policies of the past have inflicted grief and suffering on our fellow Australians and regrets the removal of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander children from their families.

GPV/KCV believes that a society that is inclusive of all is crucial to individual and community wellbeing and will behave with respect towards all irrespective of their race, religion, sexuality, gender or socio-economic background.

GPV/KCV acknowledges 13th of February as National Apology Day, the anniversary of then Prime Minister, Kevin Rudd, delivering the National Apology to Australia's Indigenous Peoples in 2008.

GPV/KCV will take steps that promote a happier and healthier future for Indigenous Australians, particularly the children and young people.

ABOUT THE CAMPAIGN PROGRAM

In every year since 2002, GPV has conducted campaigns, despite the anticipation of slow, or even no, progress. However, the nexus between the campaign issues and the life chances of children is so tight, GPV is compelled to battle on.

GPV's first campaigns addressed issues: education, childcare, and the grief of grandparents denied access to grandchildren.

Over the years many new campaigns have been taken up. Some campaigns are ongoing. Take, for example, calling for early support for vulnerable families, the reunification of children with parents, and banning adoption as an option within child protection measures are all continuing.

Campaigns are designed to raise public awareness and influence individual action, as well as to influence government/agency policy and practices. To meet these lofty aims, GPV has employed a range of strategies designed to ensure the message is heard by the people who need to hear it. Most campaigns have been started with a letter to relevant decision-makers, and some have involved following up with other strategies as well. Some campaigns relied on multiple strategies being in play at the same time. Strategies employed are listed below.

Some campaigns have advocated for changes to legislation to strengthen child and family rights, while some have called for families to be better assisted through the introduction or improvement of support programs.

Several campaigns were conducted in partnership with other organisations. Often GPV played an initial role in setting the scope of a campaign and worked in partnership with other organisations. Alternatively, GPV took independent action which echoed the sentiments of another organisation's campaign. The campaigns conducted with other organisations were most effective and comforting for GPV when issues were controversial.

The campaign program has had wide geographical relevance. Campaigns have encompassed matters of national importance and addressed issues best dealt with at a state level. Increasingly, the campaigns have centred on matters of international significance.

The GPV campaign program relies on donations. The membership fees of Life Members of GPV were critical in setting up the program in the early 2000s.

If you would like to become a member of GPV or donate to our campaign work use the QR code on the following page to link to our website.

In the meantime, read through the list of our campaigns and let us know which ones you think most relevant to 21st-century family wellbeing.

Regards,

Anne L McLeish OAM
Director

DONATE TO THE CAMPAIGN PROGRAM

The campaigns program relies on donations from members and friends of the organisation. All donations, no matter how small, make a big difference to the amount of work able to be undertaken on behalf of families.

The form that is on the websites is offered as a covenant way for people to support our work. Do consider making a donation and be assured that in doing so you are supporting long term ongoing work to support families.

To access the form, scan the QR code below or visit the campaigns page on the websites.
